The galaxy is in great turmoil. An empire of cold steel and infernal gates was born on the planet Moria, and many people from various planets have come to Moria as refugees. There has not been contact between Moria and those of the Galaxy for some time. Moria became a flourishing settlement in the dark and silent north, until some power called the Elden Ring came. In order to maintain its status as a seat of power, they began to force the accepted religion, Atheism, onto the residents of Moria. The people rebelled and the Elden Ring first launched a widespread slaughter. However, the few that survived fled to the south and established a new settlement. In pursuit of the Elden Ring, the south remained a thorn in their side and a continual threat. The Elden Ring gave a second chance to those people who pledged allegiance. An army led by the self-proclaimed “king of the north”, Warden, attacked the newly established settlement. The Elden Ring took advantage of the turmoil of the people and once again wiped out the settlement. Those who did not accept the Elden Ring religion were taken as slaves and forcibly converted into the faithful. Those who were able to escape fled south and laid siege to the lands of the south. They retreated to the capital fortress of the Elden Ring, which is now a major nuisance. The south is gradually pushing forward in their attack against the Elden Ring, but their victory is not guaranteed. With the help of the resistance force called the Nibelung, will you stand against the forces of the Elden Ring?  This app contains advertisements for third parties which use Google Play's remote advertising service. Description: ■ Description I don't know what my thoughts are. I feel like I don't know whether or not I can do anything. The matter of whether or not I can do anything— I've been defeated before, and it feels as though I might be defeated again. My sword just fell from my hands and now even that worthless jagged blade is taken away from me, and there's not a single sword around me. I don't have the strength to protect myself with my meager arms— I have already been defeated, and it feels as though I might be defeated again. —How can this be? I just didn't give up, so how can I be defeated? How can I not be defeated? —I wanted to destroy
